IS CAPTURED AFTER A SHORT FIGHT.

DOZEN MEN WERE KILLED AND A SCORE INJURED.

THE INSURGENTS ARE WARNED

Not to Tamper With Telegraph or Railway Communication Across the Isthmus.

New York, Nov. 20.—Dispatches received here today say that Colon, Colombia, was taken by the revolutionists last night after a short fight. A dozen men were killed and more than a score wounded. The government was poorly prepared for an attack. The Western Union Telegraph Company's offices here have been advised that communication between Colon and Panama is cut off. This may indicate that an attack is being made upon Panama. The United States gunboat Machias is at Colon to protect American interests.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Dispatches today confirm the capture of Colon by the insurgents.

Washington, Nov. 20.—President Roosevelt has sent word to the commanders of the United States men of war at Panama to warn the insurgents not to tamper with the telegraph or railway communications across the isthmus which by treaty the United States is pledged to keep open.

Colon, Nov. 20.—While the town has been taken by the insurgents and all business suspended traffic and telegraphic communication across the isthmus is again working and the American consul says American life and property are safe and not likely to be endangered.

CHEERFUL

APPEARED MRS. IDA BONINE IN COURT TODAY.

Attendance at Second Day's Proceedings Was Not Large—Work of Securing a Jury.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Mrs. Bonine spent a quiet night at the jail and seemed quite cheerful this morning. She has surprised even those who have reason to know her will power, by the calm manner in which she is able to demean herself. Although there have been repeated references to the crime in the preliminary examination of the jurors she has steeled herself from the beginning not to wince, to show no emotion.

The court room held comfortably today all those who were entitled to admission. The newly summoned sixty talesmen had seats well to the front. The witnesses were held in another room. The state has exercised its first peremptory challenge against George Vermillion.

FIVE

MEN WRECKED A SAFE THIS MORNING

AT TOWN OF RAVENSWOOD, WEST VIRGINIA.

WOODBURY, CONN., VISITED TOO.

At the Former Place Men Got Nothing But Made Light Haul at Woodbury.

Ravenswood, W. Va., Nov. 20.—This morning at 5 o'clock five men wrecked the safe in the Jackson county bank, blowing the door off the hinges and tearing out the bottom, but failed to get the money. The burglars met W. S. Greenlee, and Harry Anderson in front of the bank. One of them held the men at the point of a revolver while the others worked on the safe. E. H. Newell, next door, heard them and opened his window, but the robbers guarded him. After two hours they released their men and made their escape without securing anything.

Woodbury, Conn., Nov. 20.—The Woodbury Savings bank was visited by robbers last night. They blew open the safe with nitroglycerine and also damaged the strong box, out of which it is thought they may have secured $200.

At the bank this morning it was stated that the damage to the safe would exceed the amount of cash taken.

In Court Today Mrs. Allen Calmly Told Her Story, Saying Allen Attacked Her.

Youngstown, O., Nov. 20.—Mrs. Annie Louise Allen this morning admitted that she shot her husband James Allen, when she was placed on the stand in her own defense. The most sensational feature of the whole trial developed when the prisoner was placed on the stand. Other sensations have been sprung but this is the greatest. Mrs. Allen calmly told her story of the shooting. She said her husband attacked her and that she shot him to save herself.

GUN WENT OFF

He was out at Buckeye Lake fishing and hunting when the accident occurred. He had been out in a boat with a man named Swick, shooting ducks, and when he came to shore the accident occurred. While Mr. Teagarden was getting out of the boat after their return to the shore, Mr. Swick handed him the gun without noticing that it was cocked. FROM CUBA TO MANILLA

WAR DEPARTMENT TO ORDER MOVEMENT OF TROOPS.

Forces in Philippines Becoming Depleted Faster Than Can Be Replaced by Recruiting.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The President and secretary of war have decided upon another reduction of the military forces in Cuba.

This action was taken after reading a report from General Wood at Havana that a reduction could be made without any consequent ill effects, because of the tranquil condition of Cuba. Another reason for the withdrawal of troops at this time is that, owing to the ordering of several regular regiments to the Philippines, it is found advisable to strengthen the garrisons in this country.

Orders were prepared at the war department today directing the return to the United States from Cuba for the headquarters of the Second regular cavalry, together with one squadron of that regiment. Secretary Root has also issued orders to the commanding officer at Plattsburg barracks, to hasten the preparation of troops to go on the Transport Crook from New York for Manila.

The reason for the hurry is found in the fact that the returning transports from the Philippines are bringing back a great many more soldiers than can be immediately replaced, and the war department is laboring of getting enough troops to General C. affee to keep his total force as near as possible to the aggregate of 40,000.

BAG

HELD BY CAPTAIN JAMES AND OTHER OHIOANS.

LAWYER CASS IS INDICTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT.

A LARGE SUM WAS "INVESTED"

In Real Estate, But It Is Said Cass Was the Beneficiary—Capt. James Prosecutes.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 20.—George W. Cass, a lawyer, with offices in the Title and Trust Building, and formerly President of the Illinois State Bar Association, was indicted Tuesday on the charge of embezzlement. Five bills were voted against him, involving about $33,000. The charges grow out of alleged fraudulent dealings which Cass had with a score of wealthy persons in Coshocton, Ohio, the defendant's old home. Captain W. E. James, an attorney of that city, is the principal prosecutor. He says he suffered a loss of $30,000 as a result of his dealings with Cass.

The story dates back to the World's Fair, and for a time the state feared that it could not indict the attorney, as the statute of limitations ran against the case. It was found, however, that moneys had been given to Cass within the prescribed time, and on this amount—about $33,000—the evidence was introduced. In speaking of the case after testifying before the grand jury, Capt. James said:

"Cass was formerly a member of our community. We had confidence in him and he sent us back alluring offers for the purchase of real estate. We bit readily. As a result of that I am out over $30,000 and several prominent citizens of Ohio are minus larger amounts."

"Shelby G. Rider, vice president of the Chicago and Grand Rapids Railroad, has lost $60,000 to this man. Mrs. Mary Van Horn of Chicago, is also out $100,000. Several other persons have lost sums varying from $5,000 to $18,000, and the entire sum is about $270,000."

"I have discovered that he did not invest 10 per cent of the money he secured, and he even admitted to me that he did not invest my money at all. We shall prosecute the case to the limit and I shall be backed by several persons in Ohio when the case comes to trial."

Mr. Cass is a descendant of the famous Cass family which was so conspicuously connected with the early history of Michigan and Illinois.

Captain James, who is the principal prosecutor in the case referred to above is well known in Newark.

B. & O. Conductor David Murphy was painfully but not seriously injured at 6 o'clock this morning near Spencer's station. He was in charge of east bound train 26 and while standing looking at the caboose came in contact with a penstock and was knocked off the train. He was picked up by a section crew as the accident was not seen by the men on his train, and after being carried to Spencer's was brought to Newark on first No. 7 and taken to his home on Locust street. His head and back were hurt, but Dr. Smith does not regard his condition as serious.

MRS. RUTHVEN

WHO ESCAPED TUESDAY FROM THE PENITENTIARY

Is Still Enjoying Freedom and is Believed to be in Canada in Man's Clothing.

Columbus, O., Nov. 20.—Mrs. Lizzie Ruthven, the Cleveland negress, who escaped from the penitentiary yesterday has left no trace behind. Yesterday's theory that love played a part in her escape has developed into a positive conviction in the minds of the officials. That George Bailey, the Cincinnati ex-convict, who was enamored of Mrs. Ruthven, aided her to escape, is no longer doubted. It is thought he met her at the wall with male attire for her. Mrs. Ruthven often spoke of Canada as her future home, and it is believed that the couple, the woman dressed as a man, have gone there.

IF INDICTED TRIAL WILL BE HELD IN FEBRUARY.

THE PRISONER IS AN OHIO MAN.

Hayes, the St. Louis Drummer, Still at Evansville Hunting Clues on His Own Account.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 20.—Sherwell's lawyers have asked for continuance until next Monday of the preliminary hearing. They will hear the state's case and then allow their client to be bound over without making any defense at this time. A quarantine officer who yesterday told the coroner that he recognized Sherwell in the surrey near the Renner girl's house about the time she left the house, resigned his position this morning and appealed to the coroner for protection.

He says two detectives called on him this morning and threatened him with personal violence because he did not give his evidence to them instead of to the coroner.

It is indicated, Sherwell will be brought to trial in February. A dispatch from Monroeville, Ohio, where Sherwell said his parents reside, says the man is not Sherwell, but Charville. He left there for Findlay in 1886. His reputation was good. A twin brother is an engineer on the Rock Island railroad, but he and the alleged slayer of Lena Renner, have not been on good terms. The prisoner has a sister in Ohio, who is well-to-do. His wife is one of 13 heirs it is claimed, to a $2,000,000 estate in Pennsylvania. Charles Hays, the St. Louis traveling man, first suspected of the murder of the Railway woman, is still in Evansville, and says he is hunting clues on his own account.

CRACKED

HIS OWN SAFE, REPORTING A BURGLARY.

SANDUSKY MAN PRESSED BY HIS CREDITORS.

PUT THROUGH THE "SWEATBOX"

Hettig Confesses That He and His Father Did the Job—Safe Badly Wrecked.

Sandusky, O., Nov. 20.—The police were summoned to the place of business of Joseph Hettig, to investigate a bold and mysterious burglary yesterday. When they arrived they found the door of the safe lying upon the floor, several feet from the safe itself. The door was badly broken.

Hettig, who runs a saloon had cracked his safe. About $100 and some papers were taken, he said.

Hettig and his family sleep in the block over his place of business, and he claimed that he heard nothing of the work of the alleged burglars. Going on the theory that Hettig's statement was unusual the police went to work. They found hammers and a crowbar near the safe, and they traced the tools to a blacksmith shop. The proprietor said that Hettig had borrowed them a few days before. There were other matters connected with the burglary which looked queer.

At first Hettig stoutly asserted that he knew nothing of the affair. He pointed to a rear door which had been found open, and to the rifled money drawer, and protested that he had been robbed. But the sweatbox was too much for him, and he finally confessed that he had robbed himself.

The story he told the police was that he was hard pressed by creditors. He could not meet his obligations, and was at his wits end to find a way out of it. Finally he conceived an idea that if burglars visited his place and robbed him it would have a softening effect upon those to whom he owed.

This idea he carried into effect. He and his father did the work in the night. They hammered off the combination knob and pried open the door of the safe with a crowbar. Then with sledge hammers, they broke up the door and strewn the pieces about. The act proved to be a great advertisement for Hettig. All day long his place was crowded with curious people and he did a rushing business. Hettig has always borne a good reputation, and was considered well-to-do.

CHANGED HER MIND

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 20.—Pretty Lillie Coward of Windsor, N. C., and J. L. Basmore were to have been married today. Elaborate preparations had been made for the nuptials, but Miss Coward realized suddenly last evening that she loved Floyd Mitchell, one of those invited to the wedding, better than she loved Basmore and telegraphed to Mitchell at Aoshkie, telling him to come at once to her. Mitchell obeyed the summons and she married him immediately upon his arrival in Windsor.

IMITATING SPAIN'S POLICY.

Affairs in the Philippines are in a muddled condition, and may call for the intervention of the President. The military authorities and the civil commission at Manila have their differences. There is a growing impression in Washington, according to dispatches to the Philadelphia "Ledger," that the President will find it necessary to undo much of the work of the Taft commission, and again put the military in charge. How much truth there is in these reports it is impossible to say, because of the absolute secrecy maintained by those concerned. This much is plain that the fighting is going on steadily, and that the Spanish reconcentrado policy of starving all the inhabitants of Samar to death is being effectively carried out by General J. H. Smith's troops, that officer having declined to accede to the requests of heads of towns to give rice to their suffering townspeople. This "inhuman conduct," as we called it in 1898, is exactly what we went to war with Spain about.

President Roosevelt is not a close imitator of President McKinley's policies, after all. The latter favored the election of ex-Comptroller Dawes to the United States Senate from Illinois, in place of Senator Mason, anti-imperialist in the Philippines. It was circulated in Illinois that Mr. Dawes was also the candidate of the present administration. This has caused a declaration from the President that he will not interfere in the election of senators or permit Federal officeholders to take a prominent part in such elections.

CROP SHORTAGE.

The "Financial Chronicle," of New York, compiles statistics showing that the shortage of this year's harvests is somewhat greater in the aggregate than was at first supposed. The most trustworthy returns now available indicate that the total of corn, wheat, oats, barley and rye falls about 700,000,000 bushels below the total of 1900. In wheat the gain has been about 200,000,000 and in barley about 12,000,000 bushels. Corn on the other hand shows a falling off of enough to account for the entire shortage in the grain harvest. The most important shortage is in the potato crop. The department of agriculture reports the average yield of potatoes at 59 bushels per acre, compared with 80 in 1900, and 73 for an average of ten years. If we had free trade or reciprocity with Canada, Scotland and Ireland it would be much better for our people. The present duty is 25 cents a bushel.

Selfishness at its Base.

The whole high tariff policy is thoroughly selfish and hide-bound. As a rule, its direct beneficiaries would sacrifice the highest grandeur of the nation upon the altar of their own individual or corporate interests. Here we have a further exemplification of the inconsistency—or the dishonesty, perhaps—of the basic tariff argument. That has always been that we must make the country self-supporting on all of the more important lines, so as to be independent of other nations. But the moment it is proposed to annex new territory the protected interests take alarm and oppose it upon the ground that it produces something which will compete with what they produce.

WHERE WOMAN REIGNS

A Secluded Corner in Wales in Which Man Takes an Inferior and Unnoticed Part.

Far from the tumultuous and bewildering strife of great cities and vast centers, in a secluded corner of South Pembroke, unheeded by the world as it is unheeding of it, oyster-breeding, petticoat government Langum lies.

It is a race apart in its population. In its laws, in its exclusion of the stranger and its utter disregard of the world lying beyond its limits.

When you talk, when you think of Langum, you talk, you think only of its oysters and its womanhood. As the predominant partner in this sequestered village, says the London Mail, man does not exist, has never existed. And prejudiced as you may be in your masculine inattentiveness, you will have to admit, however reluctantly, that the system works well.

The Langum husband does not require your compassion, will not even thank you for it. Sitting of an evening at his cottage door with his faithful brood playing around him, his wife and daughter busy within reckoning the gains of the day's work, he is vexed by no mental anxieties or perplexities; divested of all responsibilities of life he is as placid as the oyster for which his native place is so famed. His woman folk troubles him with no fretful complaining or hysterical requirements.

Fashion standing still like all things else in Langum, they are as indifferent to the attire they go forth in as ever was Socrates, even when he donned his sheepskins and went out to meet with his friends. But, nevertheless, those stalwart daughters of Eve make an uncomely figure in their short, neat flannel skirts, their shapeless beaver or low felt hats, their coarse stockings stout clogs and their beauteous paniers, fastened across the shoulders by substantial leather straps. Fair complexioned, light-eyed, fine featured, tall, straight, with broad limbs and proud bearing, the Langum matron and vendor of fish is the most remarkable personage in the whole country. A picturesque figure in the Tenby, Pembroke and Haverford markets, there is no spot safe from her intrusive, persuasive presence.

Hard indeed, must be the heart which refuses to be charmed. Not a red-faced farmer, not a "civil-spoken" squire, but dreads her advent if not desirous of buying her juicy oysters or lighting the wet, shimmering load of fish struggling in her panier: not a wayside cottage or farm house but knows her quick heavy tread and is alive to the necessity of purchasing something from her store or make good their tale of poverty. Never resentful, save when rudely repulsed, few would be without her shrill-voiced visit, without her timely and soothing pleasantry.

Scorning distance and weather, the early day which finds her on the road to market will frequently find her at night-fall rowing her well-kept, neatly-painted boat on the silent waters of the western Cleddau, which, flowing from above Haverford, runs onward to mingle its gentle note with the wild music of the perilous Atlantic, passing as it does the easeful retreats of local magnates, the ruin of bygone splendor and the pebbly, sleepy shores of fishing village or hamlets. Abroad the Langum woman knows neither fatigue nor fear: she leads a healthy life in the open air all the year round and illness seems almost unknown.

They begin their working early and learn to handle a boat long before they have overcome the difficulties of reading. By the time they have arrived at the age of 15 or 16 they are thoroughly acquainted with every detail of their trade and they then become the bread-winners of the family. But in spite of the hardships of their lives, they retain their health and strength for many years.

An immense potato crop has been raised this season by irrigation in the Yakima Indian reservation in the State of Washington. The quantity for export is 2,000 car loads, and one farmer will clear $10,000. It is estimated that the crop will be 40,000 tons, worth $1,000,000.

This Not the Age
Of Young Men

By CHARLES T. YERKES

It is the fashion to talk of this age as being an age of young men. Personally, however, I cannot take the view that there is ever an age of youth which is really and overwhelmingly successful. The few exceptions simply attest the general rule that young men in their careers are in their apprentice-ship till the age of forty. At that age they begin to see the mistakes they have made, and the next ten years form the crucial period of a man's career, no matter what his line of life may be. Success that comes when a young man is still in his twenties or thirties is due more to good luck than good management. THE FACT THAT I LOST A MILLION MYSELF WHEN I WAS ABOUT THIRTY-FIVE ENTITLES ME TO SPEAK WITH SOME AUTHORITY.

IF ASKED AT WHAT AGE I WOULD CONSIDER A MAN RIPE AS A BUSINESS MAN, I WOULD REPLY, AT FIFTY—NOT BEFORE.

Wake Up, Englishmen!
Your House's on Fire!

By LORD ROSEBURY, Ex-Premier of Great Britain

THE NATION WHICH IS SATISFIED IS LOST. THE NATION WHICH IS NOT PROGRESSING IS RETROGRADING. "REST AND BE THANKFUL" IS A MOTTO WHICH SPELLS DECAY.

The new world seems to possess more of this quality of progressiveness, in its crude state at any rate, than the old. In individuals it sometimes seems to be carried to excess. I do not by this mean the revolutions which periodically ravage the Southern and Central American republics. I think more of the restless enterprise of the United States, with the devouring anxiety to improve existing machinery and existing methods and the apparent impossibility of accumulating any fortune, however gigantic, which will satisfy or be sufficient to allow of leisure and repose.

THERE THE DISPLAY OF FINALITY, THE ANXIETY FOR IMPROVING ON THE BEST, SEEMS ALMOST A DISEASE, BUT IN GREAT BRITAIN WE CAN AFFORD TO CATCH THE COMPLAINT, AT ANY RATE IN A MITIGATED FORM, and give in exchange some of our own self complacency, for complacency is a fatal gait. "What was good enough for my father is good enough for me" is a treasured English axiom, which, if strictly carried out, would have kept us to wooden plows and water clocks.

IN THESE DAYS WE NEED TO BE INOCULATED WITH SOME OF THE NERVOUS ENERGY OF THE AMERICANS. THAT IS TRUE OF INDIVIDUALS, ADMITTEDLY TRUE, BUT IS IT NOT ALSO TRUE OF THE NATION?

Occasionally the nation wakes up and finds that its method or machinery is out of date and even decayed. It demands, for example, that some department or another should be placed on a business footing and brought up to date, and, having made the demand, it turns its attention to something else or goes to slumber. Then it wakes up again, finds that nothing has been done, grumbles and perhaps swears and turns its attention to something else or perhaps slumbers.

There is a story of an English duke, the husband of a historic duchess, who was awakened with the news that his magnificent palace, in which he was then sleeping, was in flames. He expressed the hope that they would be put out and turned round and went to sleep again. Now, that in itself is not a bad form of phlegmatic courage, a passive force in itself, but it is a quality of strength which contains a peril. Our people, in like manner, when they are told that their house is on fire are apt to call loudly for a fire engine, but to fall asleep again directly it arrives.

ONLY LITTLE DRUSA

When John Dering died, he left three daughters to comfort his bereaved spouse, Arabella. The eldest was tall and stately, with a full, well developed form, large, handsome features, black eyes and coarse black curls.

She was the ruling spirit in the Dering household. Passionate and proud, she made, as she herself expressed it, "everybody stand around."

Lavinia, the second daughter, was tall and fleshy, with a plump face, sleepy blue eyes and light brown hair. She was the very opposite of Arabella. The latter was quick in her movements, with a lively temperament, while Lavinia was lazy and languid.

Drusa, or Little Drusa, as she was generally called, resembled neither of her sisters. She was small and slight, but very graceful, with a complexion as delicately tinted as the heart of a shell, exquisitely chiseled features, great bronze brown eyes, above which was a broad, white forehead, shaded by silken curls, the hollows of whose rippling seemed dark, while the crests shone like burnished gold.

One day she was startled by a footstep, and, hastily looking up, she saw Carl Ruthven, her sister's music teacher. He was only thirty-two, handsome, talented, with a name well known in all the select music circles in New York city. He had come into the country village to spend the summer and at the time of which we speak was getting up a concert in behalf of a church which needed repairing.

Arabella and Lavinia were to take part in the concert, and he had kindly undertaken to train them. He was on his way to the house when, passing through the woods, Drusa's melodious lay fell on his ear.

He had heard many celebrated singers, but never before had he heard such a voice—rich, deep, clear.

"Excuse me, miss," he said, with a courtly bow—"excuse me for startling you; but, really, I heard you singing, and—"

The sentence was ended with an admiring look.

Then he continued: "Will you pardon my rudeness if I ask you if you ever took lessons in vocal music?"

"Oh, no, sir!" stammered Drusa. "I have only caught up the exercises that Arabella—that my sisters practice."

"Would you permit me to give you some instruction by way of preparing you to sing at the church concert?" Drusa looked frightened.

"I? I, sir? Why, I—I hardly think the rest would like it."

"Why not?" bluntly. She looked down and said simply: "I'm only Drusa, you know."

"Well, one thing is certain, and that is that 'only Drusa' has a wonderful voice," he said, with a smile. "And she will not do right if she does not cultivate the beautiful talent the good God has given her."

The night of the concert came. All Brookside was going, and consequently the hall was crowded.

Arabella was supposed to be the best performer and was reserved for the last. Solos and duets were over, and then Lavinia, arrayed in her blue silk, came forward.

She was excited and nervous—faltering and finally broke down. Much annoyed at her sister's failure, Arabella determined to do her best and, gorgeous in her maize silk, came forward and sang her operatic air in a loud, clear voice. Not a whit embarrassed was this young lady. She was loudly applauded.

"I'm so glad that I was last, for I know I did the best," she whispered to the weeping Lavinia. "Did you see how devoted Mr. Ruthven looked when he handed me my bouquet? I know he'll propose tomorrow. Yes, I'm awfully glad that I was the last singer. I'm sure I made an impression, for I—why, my goodness! Who is that?" looking toward the stage.

For just then Carl Ruthven appeared, looking proud and happy, leading Drusa.

And standing there, with her little hands simply folded before her, she held the great audience spellbound by the magic of her matchless voice, which rang out clear as a silver bell or trilled like a bird soaring to the heavens.

The song ended. With a graceful bow the singer disappeared behind the curtain. Then, with a universal sigh, the audience recovered itself, and, oh, what applause!

Again and again she was encored. It was enough to turn the head of an older person, but Drusa was just as simple and childlike as ever.

As for Mrs. Dering and her two elder daughters, they were overcome with astonishment, but were obliged to acknowledge the superiority of Drusa's wondrous voice.—New York News.

When Knowledge Is Valuable.

The faculty of having one's mind pigeonholed is of great value. Some people have their mental bookcases and storerooms piled up with a mass of material, all valuable perhaps in its way, but jumbled up and piled together so that when any one thing is wanted it is not to be had without overhauling ten times as much other material, which, however valuable it may be in itself, has no particular use at the moment of search. Other people can lay their mental hands on any particular fact or fancy at a moment's notice and can keep on pulling out other facts and fancies of the same general character until they have told or found all they know. There is such a thing as an embarrassment of riches in one's mental treasury as well as in matters material.

Among the many new appointments and changes that are taking place on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad those affecting Newark are of especial interest. Mr. T. J. English, who for several years past has efficiently filled the position of Superintendent of Trans-Ohio divisions at this point, will go to Pittsburg where he will assume the superintendency of the Pittsburg division. Mr. English, during his stay in Newark, has made many friends, who will deeply regret to learn of his departure from our midst. Mr. F. C. Bachelor, who has been superintendent of the Chicago division, comes to Newark. Mr. D. D. Carothers, late engineer maintenance of way of the B. & O. Southwestern company, will take Mr. Bachelor's place as superintendent of the Chicago division, with headquarters in Chicago. The Cincinnati Enquirer says of Mr. Carothers: "Mr. Carothers, who is a very able man, has been here with the B. & O. S. W. company for about 10 years. Previous to coming here he was for a number of years connected with the engineering department of the Columbus and Cincinnati Midland road. He was born in Washington county, O., in 1850, and entered railroad service with the Wheeling and Lake Erie in 1882. Mr. Carothers has a large number of friends who will be gratified to learn of his advancement."

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Advice as to Roasting a Turkey.

"Ninety-nine women out of every one hundred, ninety-nine cooks out of every one hundred, will bake a turkey with the back to the pan," said a New Orleans man who keeps in touch with the kitchen. "and this is a mistake. I said ninety-nine out of every one hundred. Rather should I have said that the mistake is almost universally made. But few cooks ever think of cooking the turkey any other way. There seems to be a demand for well browned turkey breast. But in browning the breast they sacrifice the sweetness of this part of the fowl. The best way to prepare a turkey is to bake it with the breast down. I learned this lesson from Mme. Beigne, whose place down in the old quarter, near the French market, has become famed all over the country. She never thinks of baking a turkey with the breast up. The breast is turned to the bottom of the pan, and, instead of being dry and tasteless when it is served, is richly flavored and as sweet and juicy as one would care to have it. You see, all the fine flavoring of the turkey, the juices of the dressing and all the dainties touches flow down toward the breast of the fowl, and when the white meat is served you get the full benefit of every flavor added during the process of preparing and baking the turkey in addition to the distinctive taste of the fowl itself.

"Inconvenient and awkward? Not at all. It is just as easy to cook a turkey in this way as in any other way and the result is infinitely more satisfactory. It is no trouble to arrange the fowl in the pan. If you desire to place the fowl on the table before carving it, you will find that it will look quite as well as it would if baked in the usual way, and certainly it will taste much better than it would if you baked the breast until it was dry and flavorless."

Quaint Workboxes.

Old fashioned workboxes, with numerous compartments, utilizing every inch of space, are occasionally selected for the country house. They resemble a small trunk mounted like a low table or stool, and in comparison with modern work receptacles they appear exceedingly quaint.

Saving Carpets.

Moth eaten carpets are often the result of covering the floors while they are still damp after scrubbing. The floor should be absolutely dry before the carpet is relaid, and it is a good plan to sprinkle a little insect powder between the carpet and the boards by way of precaution.

Enthusiastic Converts

There are Thousands of Them Who Believe as This Woman Does.

Mrs. Ira Knowlton, of Butte, Montana, is a most enthusiastic convert to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for obstinate stomach trouble. She says: "I had poor digestion nearly all my life. It now seems to me that for years I never knew what it was to be hungry, to have a good natural appetite.

"I was troubled with gas in stomach causing pressure on the heart with palpitation and short breath. Nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach sometimes I had cramps in the stomach which almost resembled spasms.

"Doctors told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but their medicines would not reach it and I would still be a sufferer had I not, in sheer desperation on decided to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I knew they were advertised remedies and I didn't believe anything I read about them as I had no confidence in advertised remedies, but my sister living in Pittsburg wrote me last spring telling me how Stuart's Tablets had cured her little daughter of indigestion and loss of flesh and appetite and I hesitated no longer.

I bought a fifty cent box at my drug store and took two of the large tablets after each meal and found them delightful to take, being as pleasant to the taste as caramel candy. Whenever during the day or night I felt any pain or uneasiness in the stomach or about the heart I took one of the small tablets and in three weeks it seemed to me as if I had never known what stomach trouble was.

I keep Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in the house and every member of our family uses them occasionally after a hearty meal or when any of us have a pain or ache in the digestive organs.

Mr. E. H. Davis of Hampton, Va., says: "I doctored five years for dyspepsia, but in two months I got more benefit from Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets than in five years of the doctor's treatment.

most convenient remedy as well as the safest as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach bloating after meals, sympathetic heart trouble.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a cheap cathartic but an active digestive remedy containing the pepsin and diastase which every weak stomach lacks, and they cure stomach troubles because they digest the food eaten and give the weak, abused overworked stomach a chance to rest and recuperate.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold in every drug store in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

UNEXPECTED ADVICE.

(From the London Tit-Bits.) Some time ago a man presented himself before the Liverpool magistrates with the following tale:

"My name is Patrick O'Conner and I live at—street, an' I kapes hens in my cellar, but the water pipes is burst an' my hens are all drowned."

"Well my good man, we can do nothing for you; you had better apply to the water company," was all the advice he got.

A few days later the same man appeared with precisely the same tale.

"You were here a few days ago, and we advised you to go to the water company. Did you do so?"

"I did, yer honors."

"And what did they say to you?"

"They told me to kape ducks!"

TWENTY THOUSAND SPECIMENS FROM NORTHERN SIBERIA.

Mr. Buxton Writes Entertainingly of the Jessup Expedition.

Data To Settle Question of Migration—Fine and Rare Biological Specimens Found in No American Museum—Manchurian Railway—Coming Home.

Johnstown, O., Nov. 20.—Mr. Horton J. Buxton is just in receipt of the following interesting letter from his son Norman G. Buxton, who is now returning from a scientific expedition into the semi-polar regions of Northern Siberia:

Vladivostok, Siberia, Oct. 12, '01. During the two weeks since my arrival here, we have been busy packing and shipping our collections, settling accounts and disposing of articles left over from our outfit, preparatory to leaving for home. On the 30th ult. I cabled you of my arrival and also the Museum for instructions, as there were none here and on the 8th inst. received reply to come to New York at once. The cases containing our combined collection number 185, which measure over 2800 cubic feet or 70 ship tons, or a pile 20 feet square and 7 feet high. It contains no less than 20,000 distinct specimens and represents almost everything that walks, flies, creeps, crawls, swims or has its being in the vast section of Siberia lying north of 61 degrees N latitude and west of 152 degrees E longitude, and also the peninsula of Kamchatka. It fully illustrates the life, customs, habits and manners of the Phonchees, Koraks, Tunguese Kamchadales, the native people who inhabit this country, and the life history of most of the species of mammals, birds, fishes, insects and plants found there.

The data furnished by the ethnological part of the collection, together with that already acquired by former parties of the Jessup North Pacific Expeditions in Alaska and Siberia will undoubtedly be sufficient to President Morris K. Jessup of the American Museum of Natural History, the generous projector of these expeditions, and the world, whether the human race originally migrated from the North American continent to Asia or vice versa. The biological material which I have collected will also be extremely interesting, as there are very few specimens of these in any museum in the world and none at all in the American museums.

The next day after I arrived here, Governor Chicago sent me word to call on him, which I did. He was very cordial, gave me a fine collection of Siberian plants which he had promised to do last year, and kindly offered to do anything in his power to help me in my work or make my stay here more pleasant. The Governor General's Inspector of Government posts was a passenger on the same ship with me from Gichiga and invited me to call on him at Khabarovsk and volunteered to assist me in case I should remain here and go down the Amoor river next year. If one comes to Siberia well recommended and can fulfill the recommendations, he is assured of receiving all the favors and courtesies that these most hospitable people can summon.

Before receiving word from the Museum to come home, I had obtained a permit to go through Manchuria on the new railroad which will be completed in a short time, and later, our party, consisting of Mr. Borgoras, Mr. Smith, a biologist who has been doing field work here and in Korea for the Imperial Russian Museum for the past 18 months his assistant and myself, receiving passes over this road from the official agent here. Two days ago I learned it would be necessary to obtain permit from the Governor General at Khabarovsk, so I immediately wired him and Governor Chicago, who has gone there to meet some high officials coming out from Russia, but up to now I have no reply. They are guarding this route very jealously and so far have given no permit to any foreigner as they especially fear the newspaper reporter and the Englishman. I met an Englishman here, today who had just come from London via the Trans-Siberian and Amoor River route and he met a fellow-countryman who had attempted to come through on the Manchuria and was sent back after he had gone part way. By the way, the feeling of the people here in the far East, including Russians, Koreans, Chinese, Germans, French, Italians, Austrians, Americans, Norwegians and many Japanese, toward the English is not very cordial just now, notwithstanding English and American jingo newspaper reports to the contrary, and the feeling of the English here towards the subjects of these countries is no more cordial. Manufactured goods stamped "made in England" are discriminated against and the manufacturers of other countries, especially America and Germany, are being benefited by it.

This Manchurian railway is now completed with the exception of about 60 miles, and construction gangs are working on both ends of it so that the gap will be closed within a very few days. One must travel over this part now by horse or ox. On the 14th inst. they begin to sell tickets over it. Most all of the bridges are permanent, but the road bed for much of the way is only temporary and is continually washing out. No passenger service is yet maintained and one must depend upon the construction and the freight trains which pass over it, for transportation.

We have been warned to take our "shooting irons" with us. Not to wage war on escaped Boxers or possible highwaymen, but to secure proper respect from drunken, petty officials. We go from here to Nicholsk, then down to Habin, and then up to Keetah on the southeast side of Lake Baikal. On the other side of the lake at Jakutsk, we strike the Trans-Siberian, where good train service is maintained. In case I do not hear from the Governor General today or tomorrow, I will go anyway on Monday, the 14th and trust to luck to get through.

Transportation on the Amoor river between Khabarovsk and Blagoveshchinsk, has already closed for the season on account of low water. I will stop a few days each in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Hamburg, Paris and London and probably reach New York in six or seven weeks. If I am long in getting through, will cable you from Russia or London.

Lieut. Berthoff, who came around the world last year to buy Siberian reindeer for the Alaskan Esquimaux called on me last week just before he left for America. He said that of the 50 deer that he bought at Ola last winter 300 were safely landed at the Tuller reindeer station, Port Clarence, Alaska. The deer will stand the government about $20,000. Although this work was begun several years ago, by the Alaskan Bureau of Education, this was the first large purchase that has been made and they wish to purchase about 3000 more in the next year or two. This is a very practicable way of educating the natives of Northern Alaska and saving them from certain extinction. These reindeer thrive better in Alaska than here, and when a Yankee sees them scattered all over this country in herds of one to twenty thousand and their skins alone selling for $1 each he cannot help thinking they would be of considerable commercial importance to the United States. More money in developing and perfecting what we already have and less in acquiring hares and troubles over the sea, would decrease the national debt at home and increase the national standing abroad. The Russian government has now become alarmed, fearing that we are going to take all of the hundreds of thousands of reindeer that her nation now possesses, and has issued orders limiting the number that can be taken each year. They are mistaken, however, as the sale of a few thousand each year would put money into Northern Siberia, where it is greatly needed to stimulate the natives to raise more deer, and the sale of 10,000 every year would not be noticeable. Besides, thousands are dying here every year from hoof disease. Alaskan authorities have been making experiments to find a way to prevent this and will succeed so that the Russians could profit by the experience if they would.

The weather here is very fine, surpassing October weather in Ohio, as the nights are warmer. Vladivostok has prospered wonderfully in the last year and is increasing her stride every day. Large, substantial buildings are going up all over the city. Business is rushing. Its promoters and everybody are making big money. It being a fortified port, business is permitted to be carried on only under very rigid restrictions. Consequently its commercial and industrial progress is greatly hindered. Think of a rich city of 40,000 inhabitants—there is really much wealth here—which has no street railways, no water works, no electric light plant, no telephone system, no planing mill, no carriage works, and not even a steam laundry or laundry stable, no omnibus or transfer line, no good hotel. There are but two banks, nominally, and really but one, and they allow depositors 6 per cent interest.

Later—I just returned from calling on Gov. Chicago and now have all papers necessary to go through Manchuria, thanks to his kindness and interest in me. Bogaras and I will leave tomorrow morning, the 14th, for New York and home.

Neuralgia.

The Prayer of a Nerve for More Blood.

Neuralgia may attack any part of the body but most frequently occurs where the nerves are most abundant. In the head. Sometimes the heart nerves seem to twist. Wringing rheumatic pains of the extremities. Sharp and intense at times. In the intervals dull and heavy. It is a disease of the nerve centers, and the pains accompanying it are a prayer for better nourishment. They are a danger signal which warn you against a total collapse of the nervous system. Permanent and all external applications can only give temporary relief. The nerve centers cannot possibly come until the nerve centers are thoroughly revitalized by Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. The beneficial effects of this great nerve restorative are felt thrilling through the nerve fibers as week by week and month by month the nerve force of the body is restored. There is a way to do it, at an expense of less than one cent a day—a way to have your home the greatest educational influence of our time. "St. Nicholas for Young Folks" is the medium—a magazine absolutely unequalled in the literature of the world. It is recommended by educators everywhere, it contains only the very best and most helpful and entertaining literature, and it is illustrated by the greatest of American illustrators.

In 1902 some new features are to be introduced into this famous periodical—one is the printing of long stories complete in a single number—no serials. A splendid group of stories by the best living writers for young folks has been gathered for this purpose.

"Nature Study" is now a great feature of St. Nicholas. The young readers ask questions and they are answered in a department called "Nature and Science." Private Scholastic take the magazine for this alone. The "St. Nicholas League" is an organization of St. Nicholas readers wherein prizes are offered for the best pictures, stories, poems, etc.

CHILD WIFE

Cruelly Beaten by Her Colored Husband—Workhouse Sentence Imposed.

Columbus, O., Nov. 20.—Andrew Jackson, a burly negro was arraigned in police court Tuesday on the charge of beating his wife, Mattie Jackson. The case is a very aggravated one. Jackson brought the little girl here from West Virginia about a year ago and was charged with abduction but as no case could be made he was dismissed.

His wife, who is the 18-year-old daughter of a well to do family of West Virginia, has been cruelly beaten ever since her marriage to Jackson. On Sunday night he knocked her down and then kicked her, inflicting a dangerous wound. She was confined to the house for a time but was able to appear against her assailant Tuesday. Judge Dick sentenced him to 30 days in the workhouse and fined him $10 and costs.

THE FIRST NIGHT.

When her little one laughs tonight,
Oh, what shall I say?
When he comes for his room with me,
In the glad old way.

While she lies white where the night
winds blow—
When he with a look that he cannot know,

Gleefully shouts as the careless may—
What shall I say—oh, what shall I say?

When her little one kneels tonight,
Oh, what shall I say?
When he prayed for her who was left
Out there today,

When he asked God's blessing for her and me,
When he pressed his cheek against my knee

And says the prayer she taught him
to pray,
What shall I say—oh, what shall I say?

When our little one calls her name,
Oh, what shall I say?
When he enters her empty room,
And comes to lay

His little hot cheek against my face,
When he waits to receive his kiss and embrace

From her out there 'neath the cold hard clay,
What shall I say—oh, what shall I say?

PROFICIENT.

(From the Washington Star.)
A certain lawyer here in town employs a stenographer who has the most wonderful collars and the most elaborate pompadour in all the business world. She has a personal theory of punctuation and her spelling marked with an engaging originality, but she's so eventempered that only an absurdly carping person would take notice of such eccentricities. One day she laid before her employer a neatly typed letter to a southern correspondent. Before signing it he glanced over it.

"See here," he said, "you've spelled sugar 'sugar.'"

The typewriter glanced at the sheet and smiled.

"Dear me," said she, "how careless of me! Why, I've left out the 'h.'"

GOVERNOR IN ACTION

Railway Consolidation Unpopular in Minnesota.

STEPS TO BE TAKEN TO PREVENT IT.

Another Raid by Union Miners Anticipated at Vincennes—Morocco Factory Employees Threaten Trouble. Action of Chicago Teamsters—Happenings in the Industrial World.

St. Paul, Nov. 20.—The reported consolidation of northwestern railroads has aroused Governor Van Sant into action. He sent a messenger to find Attorney General Douglas in the northern Minnesota woods and request him to return to the city so that a consolidation may be held with regard to the railway situation. Governor Van Sant is determined not to have a consolidation or combine between the Northern Pacific and Great Northern or any other competing lines in this state. The first step will be to learn from the attorney general what legal steps are necessary to bring the matter to a final issue, and that as speedily as possible. If Attorney General Douglas requires assistance, the governor promises to engage the best legal talent that can be had, either in this state or outside it.

The governor has received no telegrams or other advices from the governors of the neighboring states as to what action they will take, but it is expected that the fight will be taken up in all the northwestern states, several of which have laws similar to Minnesota, prohibiting the consolidation of parallel and competing lines of railroads. The laws of North Dakota, Montana and Washington are said to be identical with those of Minnesota.

Nonunion Men Attacked.

Vincennes, Ind., Nov. 20.—Four hundred union coal miners from Washington, Cannellburg, Petersburg, Princeton and Montgomery marched here and made an attack upon the non-union miners employed at the Prospect Hill mines, near this city. As a result two men are fatally hurt and a half dozen more are seriously injured. The union miners formed at the Union station and marched to the mines. They asked for the foreman, William Scott, and when told that he was in bed, said: "All right, we will get him," and started after him, and for a short time pandemonium ran in the mine. The followers of Mr. Scott and his family defended themselves as best they could, but were powerless. Scott was badly beaten about the head and face, and W. F. Collins, an attorney of Washington, a brother-in-law of Scott, who was visiting there, sustained injuries that may prove fatal. Five others were terribly beaten and the house was partially wrecked. Another attack is feared.

Another Combine.

Topeka, Nov. 20.—The arrangements are practically completed for the consolidation of the gypsum, plaster, cement and tuccon plants of the country into one corporation, to be known as the United States Gypsum company. The company will have a capital stock of $10,000,000, of which $5,000,000 will be preferred. The preferred stock, it is claimed, will pay dividends at the rate of 7 per cent a year. A large percentage of the capital invested in gypsum plaster plants at present is owned in Kansas, and the majority of the large plants are in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Demand Recognition.

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 20.—Labor troubles that have been threatening assumed serious proportions, and promise to tie up all the morocco factories here. The trouble is between the manufacturers and Glazers' union of the Socialist Trade and Labor alliance. At present four shops are affected. The main question at issue is the recognition of the union, although the question of price for piece and week work is involved. The Socialist Trade and Labor alliance held a mass meeting and made plans to tie up all the factories if necessary.

Railway Strike.

New York, Nov. 20.—Nearly 800 men, comprising the entire force of brakemen, freight handlers and switchmen of the New York division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, went on strike. The reported cause of the strike is the discharge of the assistant superintendent, Robert Thurbush, of the Mothaven yards. The strike also materially affects the tugboat and float system of the railroad in this city. John H. Thurbush, general yardmaster and a brother of Robert Thurbush, said he did not know the cause of dismissal.

Chicago Teamsters Withdraw.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Because of the preponderance of "bosses" or employers in the National Teamsters' union, the Chicago branch of the union has withdrawn from the national body and taken out incorporation papers under the laws of the state of Illinois. About 3,500 teamsters have membership in the local union. It is claimed the secession movement from the national union will extend to all of Illinois and to every city of importance in the nation.

Elects Officers, Adopts Platform, Decides as to Political Action to be Taken.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 20.—Three prominent features marked the proceedings of the national convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, viz., the election of officers, the final deliverance of a platform of principles and a decision in respect to political action. The last was accomplished without considerable debate, the extremists contending that, as the convention had declared its resolutions for Christian citizenship, a constitutional enactment concerning polygamy and monogamistic marriage and the necessity of prohibiting the manufacture, sale and distribution of alcoholic liquor by law, it would be consistent to cast its fortune with the political party pledged to the support of these reforms. The conservative portion of the convention, however, held that as the cause of opposition to the liquor traffic had so far prospered through nonpartisan action, "well enough alone" should continue to be the motto. The latter view prevailed. Mrs. Lillian Stevens of Mai was elected president.

Philadelphia, Nov. 20.—Thomas Meacham, one of the most eminent horticulturists and botanists in the country, and who has an international reputation, died at his home in Germantown after a lingering illness he was 77 years of age. Mr. Meacham devoted his entire career to botany and horticulture, and was an eminent authority on these subjects.

Taking a Long Nap.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 2.—James A. Harris, 67, a potter, went to sleep on the morning of Nov. 7 and efforts to awaken him have so far failed. He has been kept alive by brandy and wine, which have been forced down his throat. The attending physicians are mystified, though they think it may be a case of hemorrhage of the brain.

Plague Raging at Cap Town.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 20.—The British steamer Monmouth, Cape Troop, which arrived here direct from Cape Town, South Africa, reports the existence of over 800 cases of bubonic plague in the vicinity of Cape Town when she left port. As to the time she sailed 380 deaths from the plague had occurred.

TO ATOMS

Boy Who Employs as a Drum a Can Containing Nitroglycerine Blown in Indiana.

Alexandria, Ind., Nov. 20.—Charlie Ott, 13, was blown to atoms in a peculiar manner. The little boy found a nitroglycerin tin can in the rear of his home, and trying it about his waist he proceeded to beat a merry tattoo on his improvised drum. A terrible explosion which shook the city followed. Frightened neighbors rushed to the scene and found the mangled remains of the little fellow strewn all over the yard. Both arms and legs of the little victim were blown off and the front part of his head was torn away. The can which dealt death to the boy was left on the spot by well shooters two weeks ago, and it was supposed that not enough of the deadly explosive remained to be dangerous.

Miss Stone Located.

Sofia, Nov. 20.—It is reported that Mr. Dickinson, the United States diplomatic agent here, has informed the government of Bulgaria that the abductors of Miss Ellen M. Stone and Mme. Tsilka, with their captives, are concealed in a defile of the Belleritza mountains, near Smotch, district of Dabnitza, and has requested that troops be sent to surround the place and liberate the captives. Both Mr. Dickinson and the Bulgarian foreign office decline to confirm or deny this report. Nevertheless it is believed that Mr. Dickinson, persuaded of the impossibility of coming to terms with the brigands, and relying upon his belief that they will not harm the captives if the troops are employed against them, has, after consulting with Washington, decided upon this move. Only eight bandits now guard Miss Stone, and some of them are known to sympathize with her.

Meade Courtmartial.

New York, Nov. 20.—Commanding officer of the marine barracks at the Brooklyn navy yard, faced a courtmartial in the paymaster's building at the yard on charges preferred against him by Major C. H. Luchmeier and Colonel L. F. Denny. The officer is accused of drunkenness while on duty and scandalous conduct. Only two witnesses were examined, the first being Colonel L. F. Denny, one of the two complainants, who made a direct charge of intoxication and unbecoming conduct against Colonel Meade. From the mass of evidence which is to be brought before the court the sessions may possibly last until the latter part of next week.

Bail For Iglesias.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, received word from San Juan that, in accordance with Mr. Gompers' request, $500 bond for the release of Santiago Iglesias had been offered but rejected, and the court ordered that a deposit of $500 in money be made. Mr. Gompers hesitates to authorize this deposit, not from fear, he states, of Mr. Iglesias to appear at trial, but because of the refusal of the Porto Rican court to accept good and sufficient bail, and its insistence upon a money deposit, which he regards as something unusual. He will consult his colleagues of the executive council of the federation.

Result of a Run on a Bank.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 20.—The Metropolitan bank, P. V. Caesar, president, closed its doors after standing a long run. The run began as the result of a misunderstanding, the small depositors believing that a suit filed Friday against the receivers of the Metropolitan Savings bank, which failed five days ago, had something to do with the present Metropolitan bank. About $40,000 was withdrawn and the bank applied for a receiver. Dwight Phelps was appointed. The fact that the school children's savings account, amounting to $12,000, was in the bank, helped to spread the rumor started by the suit. The Metropolitan's total deposits are about $500,000.

Enterprise of Negroes.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 20.—The negroes, who have installed a boycott against the streetcars on account of the recent ordinance separating the races on the cars, held a mass meeting and agreed to organize a stock company of 20,000 shares at $1 a share, to operate a stage coach service throughout the city exclusively for negroes.

HAY ON DIPLOMACY.

Secretary of State Aims Public Affairs at a Spread.

DESIGNATES UNCLE SAM'S MOTTO.

The Republic's Rule the Monroe Doctrine and the Golden Rule—No Designs on Central and South American States—The Need of Reciprocity. Friendship of All Nations Desired.

New York, Nov. 20.—The Chamber of Commerce gave its annual banquet at Delmonico's, covers being laid for 450. President Morris K. Jesup presided. The speakers of the evening were Secretary of State John Hay, Ambassador Choate, Senator McLaughlin (S. C.) and Governor-elect Albert B. Cummins of Iowa. Secretary Hay was assigned the toast, "Our Diplomacy," and responded in part as follows:

There was a time when diplomacy was a science of intrigue and falsehood of traps and mines and counter-mines. It may be another instance of that crudelity with which I have often been charged by European critics when I say that I really believe the world has moved onward in diplomacy as in many other matters. I can say without hesitation that we have generally told squarely what we wanted, announced early in negotiations what we were willing to give, and allowed the other side to accept or reject our terms. During the time which I have been prominently concerned in our foreign relations I can also say that we have been met by the representatives of other powers in the same spirit of frankness and sincerity. But if we are not permitted to boast of what we have done, we can at least say a word about what we have tried to do, and the principles which have guided our action. The briefest expression of our rule of conduct is perhaps the Monroe doctrine and the golden rule. With this simple chart we can hardly go far wrong.

I think I may say that our sister republic to the south of us are perfectly convinced of the sincerity of our attitude. They know we desire the prosperity of each of them, and peace and harmony among them. We no more want their territory than we care the mountains of the moon. We are ordered and distressed when there are differences among them, but even then we should never think of trying to compose any of those differences by the request of both parties to it. Not even our earnest desire for peace among them will lead us to any action which might offend their national dignity or their just sense of independence. We have kept always in view the fact that we are predominantly a people-loving people; that our normal activities are in the direction of trade and commerce; that the vast development of our industries imperatively demands that we shall not only have free trade with our present markets, but seek constantly by all honorable means to extend our commercial interests in every practicable direction. It is for this reason we have negotiated the treaty of friendship which now awaits the action of the senate; all of them received in the traditional American spirit of protection to our own industries, and yet mutually advantageous to ourselves and our neighbors.

We consider our interests in the Pacific ocean as great now as those of any other power and destined to development. We have opened our doors to the people of Hawaii; we have accepted the responsibility of the Philippines, which President McKinley imposed upon us; we have put an end to an embarrassing condominium in which we were involved in Samoa, and while abandoning none of our commercial rights in the entire Pacific, we have established our flag and authority in Tutuila, which gives us the finest harbor in the South seas. Next in order will come a Pacific cable, and an isthmian canal for the use of all well-disposed peoples, but under exclusive American ownership and American control; of both of which great enterprises President McKinley and President Roosevelt have been energetic and consistent champions.

We frankly confess we seek the friendship of all peoples; we want to trade with all peoples; we are conscious of resources that will make our commerce a source of advantage to them and also profit ourselves. But to wantness or strength will ever induce us to drive a hard bargain with another nation because it is weak, nor will any fear of moblike criticism tempt us to insult or defy a great power because it is strong, or even because it is friendly.

Senator John McLaughlin of South Carolina responded to the sentiment, "The Monroe doctrine of the twentieth century." He declared the principles embraced in the "McKinley doctrine" to be the only ones which promise the stability of the nation. Hon. A. B. Cummins, governor-elect of Iowa, discussed the relations between labor and capital. He declared the people of this country would never submit to industrial monopoly. Both speakers favored reciprocity.

Ambassador Choate referred to the intense sorrow manifested by the English people in all walks of life over the shooting and death of the late President McKinley.

Mrs. Bonine's Trial.

(Columbus Dispatch)

Hundreds of Columbus people are interested in the murder trial at Washington, D. C. of Mrs. Lola Ida Bonine, charged with the shooting of Clerk J. S. Ayres at the Kenmore hotel at the national capital.

Mrs. Bonine, her husband and her children boarded at several places in this city and here she has many friends who will watch the outcome of the trial with great interest.

She was here for about two years and nothing was ever breathed against her fair name.

Her husband was a traveling man and according to her story Ayres called her to his room and there, locked the door, made an improper proposal.

She struggled with him and says that she finally shot him with his own pistol and afterwards escaped down the fire escape to her own room.

LOST TEETH IN HAY MOW.

(From the Milwaukee Sentinel.)

Humor crops out in spots in the daily experiences of the dentist, though the uninitiated is apt to call to mind only visions of "ohs" and "ahs" and involuntary screams from the innocent victim in the chair.

A dignified dentist of Wisconsin told how his funny bone was struck and he nearly lost a patient by laughter in his face. A typical old German farmer sat patiently undergoing repairs to his maxillary machinery.

"How did you happen to lose your teeth?" politely inquired the tooth carpenter.

"I loscht 'em in de hay mow," was the unexpected reply.

This brought an outburst of hilarity from the knight of the forceps as the law of association brought before him a vision of the traditional needle in a haystack.

Carl & Seymour's shoe store will be open Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 9 p. m. to 11 p. m. Nov. 20th and 21st, for the benefit of laboring men. 1943t

FOR THE CHILDREN

Trained Cats.

A showman in England has trained a number of cats to perform some rather remarkable tricks. One of them climbs a rope to the roof of the building in which the show is given and there takes hold of the handle of a parachute, by which it descends to the ground.

Another bit of training is even more wonderful. The average cat, you know, can find no daughter mouse than a mouse or a canary bird, and when it sees one it pounces on it as eagerly as the tiger of the jungle on its prey. But this showman has a cat that steps carefully and gingerly over a long line of mice and canaries, walking as if it were terribly afraid of hurting some of them.

The showman says that he has trained all sorts of animals—bears, lions, leopards and tigers—but the cat is the most difficult to handle. It is not that it lacks intelligence, for it has plenty of that, but that it is unwilling to allow any one to make it do what it does not wish to do. He says it is impossible to depend on it; that it will perform when it happens to be in the humor to do so, but if it be not in the humor nothing will make it obedient. He has thirty cats in his "circus," but he takes sixty around with him, the extra thirty being "understudies," which take the place of those that refuse to perform.

It took him four years to train some of his cats. He says that kindness is absolutely necessary. If you strike a cat once, she will never perform again. The cat that walks over the line of mice and birds was brought up with them from kittenhood and thus made familiar with them.

Denial.

"Are you the defendant in this case?"
"No, sir; I'm only the man who committed the theft."

Shrewd.

"What made you tell the janitor the temperature was just right?" said Mrs. Wiley.
"Because I knew the janitor's disposition," answered her husband.
"If we make him believe we are thoroughly comfortable, he will hustle around and make things different."

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Li Hung Chang's Successor. The appointment of Yuan Shi Kai as viceroy of China to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Li Hung Chang, meets with general approval in China, both among natives and foreigners. His administration of Shanghai gave evidence of ability and wisdom. Ministers of the powers consider him the strongest man in China after Li Hung Chang, and they think his presence in Peking will have a good influence on the court.

Yuan Shi Kai has ruled the province of Shanghai, which is the most turbulent province in the empire and the seat of the Boxer movement, with an iron hand, and there are those who fear that his removal may result in disorder because of the friction with the Germans.

The Home of the Goat.

At the last day's exercises of one of the public schools in Philadelphia a chorus of Italian children sang "The Star Spangled Banner." The song went very well, and few of the visitors knew the patient drilling which had been necessary to assure its success. The children knew but little English, and the teacher who had them in charge had been forced to explain to them the meaning of every word in the anthem. They had particular trouble with the line "long may it wave." The word wave was associated in their minds with water, and the teacher had difficulty in making them see that a flag could wave without being the ocean. When the tired teacher finally said "the flag floats," they understood perfectly. The next time the chorus was sung the children used the word float instead of wave, and in trying to make the rhyme they evolved this verse:

The star spangled banner,
Long may it float
O'er the land of the free
And the home of the goat.

South Carolina Tea.

The reports on the experiments in raising tea that have been going on in South Carolina for some years are all so favorable as to make it pretty certain that in the course of time tea-raising will become an important industry, and that not only will we not be compelled to purchase our tea abroad, as at present, but will get a superior article of domestic production. There never was any apparent reason why the shrub that produces tea should not grow as well on this continent as on any other, but it was for a long time supposed that it would not, simply because the experiment had not been intelligently tried. Within the last generation tea-growing has been introduced into a number of localities far removed from those that were supposed to be its peculiar habitat, and it has been shown that the plant will flourish under intelligent culture through a wide range of latitude and longitude.

It having been shown that tea can be grown in South Carolina, it follows that with the same attention it may be produced over a wide area of the United States. Already the experimenters, as is usual in the importation of new industries or processes into the United States, have adopted a number of improvements over the old world methods in the growing and handling of the plant and its product, and it may not be impossible that in the future we may find ourselves selling tea to China, as we have lately been carrying coals to Newcastle. But however this may be, tea-growing gives every promise of becoming an important industry, and its introduction is one of the many evidences of the value to the country of an intelligent and energetic administration of the Department of Agriculture.

Young Man Missing.

There is no cause assigned for his mysterious disappearance. Last Friday evening he called on his fiancée and since then nothing has been heard of him.
